STATE NEWS.

— The South Carolina Synod will be held in the Presbyterian church at Darlington commencing on the 28th of October.

— The Yorkville Freeman records the fact that two of its correspondents fell in love through reading each others letters and were married.

— Ex-Gov. John Gary Evans and Miss Emily Plume, of Waterbury, Conn., will be married on December 14th, at the residence of the bride's parents.

— It is understood that the Norris Cotton Mill Co., of Pickens county, has determined to complete its plant as soon as possible, owing to the prospect for business.

— A Chester preacher forgot to go to preaching one night last week. That was once in five years. He ought to be excused; some church members forget every Sunday.

— Mr. Joseph C. Dodgens, of Pickens county, says he has a rich gold and silver mine on his land, on the headwaters of Cane creek, in said county, seven miles from Toxaway, N. C. The mine has been partially opened.

— The first cargo of Western wheat, 100,000 bushels, to be shipped to Europe through Charleston, has been received from Kansas City. This is another evidence that the City by the Sea is going to be right in the commercial procession.

— There has been more or less talk lately to the effect that Congressman Talbot would be a candidate next year for Governor against Ellerbe. Upon being asked about the matter by a representative of the Columbia State, Mr. Talbot says he has no idea of such a thing.

— The Spartanburg knitting mills find business so much better that they have added eight more hosiery machines and three ribbers, giving them now twenty-one hosiery machines, eleven ribbers and five loopers, and enabling them to manufacture 900 dozen of ladies' and children's hose per week.

— Mrs. Elizabeth Hammett, a member of one of the most prominent families in Greenville county, was accidentally killed last Saturday. She was returning in a wagon, in company with friends, from a meeting in Bates township. The mules got frightened, ran away, threw her out of the wagon, and her head was crushed under the wheels.

— While under the influence of liquor, Theodore McKenzie, a deaf mute, 30 years old, and a member of a respectable family at Kingstree, shot his brother, Walker, in the face with a gun loaded with powder. Both eyes were blown out and the flesh lacerated. Should the wounds not prove fatal, the man's face will be permanently disfigured.

— This is a record-breaking season, particularly among swine and kine. In further proof of that fact we are in a position to make the following veracious statement: Mr. J. P. Turner has on his place one litter of 17 pigs, and two calves of exactly the same age whose mother is one and the same animal. And there may be others in the county yet to hear from.—Florence Times.

— The latest railroad news is that the Southern R. R. Co., will at an early date finish up the Pickens railroad, running a train daily from Pickens through to Greenville, leaving Pickens in the early morning and returning late in the evening. This sounds well and if it is put through it will be much better than it would were it to stop at Easley.—Pickens Sentinel.

— An investigation of the record books in the office of the register of mesne conveyance for Greenville county shows that the books have been improperly kept during the years 1893 to 1896. This was during the term of J. Thos. Austin and while Seth W. Scruggs was his clerk. This condition of affairs has been known to a few for a long time, but the facts will soon become widely known. Many deeds now held in the county are not recorded as prescribed by law, and until the defects are corrected titles to lands covered by the deeds will be clouded.

— William Lytle of Spartanburg, was arrested on the charge of counterfeiting. It seems that the United States detectives are trying to connect him with the case which was prominently before the Spartanburg public recently of a young man from Polk county, N. C., who tried to pass counterfeit $5 bills. He waived preliminary examination and gave $5,000 for his appearance at the next term of the United States Court at Greenville. Will Lytle has hosts of friends in Spartanburg who feel assured that he will come out of his unpleasant position all right.

THE EPWORTH ORPHANAGE.

A Most Noble Work—A Visit There and What the Visitors Saw.

EDITORS INTELLIGENCER: Last week, after a space of almost a year, we made a second visit to the Epworth Orphanage, which is, as was stated in a previous letter, located about a mile east of Columbia, near Garner's Ferry road. From the Orphanage buildings, on account of the high elevation of the place, one can see far into Lexington, and, perhaps, into Orangeburg Counties. In front of the three main buildings there is a beautiful grove of hickory, cedar and oak. The yards are level and are covered with sand and grass—no red mud to soil the clothes of the fifty odd neat little orphan children who are so well cared for and who are so well contented in their new home.

During the week days the children are taught the rudiments of an education by two excellent and experienced teachers—Mrs. Julia P. Price, of Orangeburg County, and Miss Eleanor Thompson, of Sumter County, and regularly attend Sunday School.

Mrs. E. J. Black, of Vaughnsville, has charge of the dining room, sewing department. Mrs. F. H. Spivey, of Williamsburg County, is the matron for the boys, and Miss Lizzie Gasque, of Marion County, is matron for the girls. Miss Sunie Anderson, of Abbeville County, has charge of the culinary department.

Since our last visit the well constructed and commodious barn has been burned, together with provender, tools and stock, and rebuilt. The Plumer system of water works has been placed and carries water to the three main buildings, the superintendent's residence, the boys' home, the girls' home, which is a twelve-room brick building recently completed. Water is also conveyed to the two-story laundry building, which is a great blessing to the children, as it considerably lessens their labors.

Mr. W. O. Ammons, of Marion County, who has done so much faithful work in his line for the orphanage, is employed as carpenter, and Mr. W. T. Walker, of Camden, an experienced printer, is employed in the printing department, where the Epworth Orphanage Record is printed monthly, besides the job work that comes in from all parts of the country.

Mr. James Simpson, of Chester, has charge of the farm work.

An orchard and a vineyard, which will, from time to time, be enlarged, has already been commenced.

Ample arrangements are being made for raising poultry. There are no idlers about the Epworth Orphanage. Everybody works—the boys learn to set type, do farm work, and make themselves useful generally, when they are not in school, and the girls are taught to do housework. A reading room and library have been provided for the orphanage.

A parlor suite in the boys' building has been given by Dr. Weber, of Lancaster, and a piano has been presented to the girls by Master William Martin, Jr., of Columbia, S. C.

To feed the children, it takes weekly about nine gallons of molasses, a barrel of flour, and other things in proportion.

Several cows have recently been given, but a few more are yet needed.

Children from three years of age up to thirteen, whose parents are of different denominations, have been received and will remain, nothing providentially hindering, until they have finished the course of study mapped out for them.

One good lady connected with the orphanage says: "There are no wild, headless boys among them—they are all admirable boys." There is no confusion—everything goes on here like clock work. The telephone line which runs from the superintendent's office to the city is a great convenience.

Mrs. Geo. H. Waddell is preparing to have a small, but well arranged flower garden. She says she wants the children "to know and love flowers." Besides those already erected, other buildings will be constructed as fast as the means at hand will justify. Several hundred children have already been denied admittance because of room and means. The superintendent, Rev. George H. Waddell, is almost constantly canvassing the State in the interest of the orphanage, which has no endowment and makes no assessment upon the church, but is dependent entirely upon voluntary contributions. The orphanage needs assistance, and will at any and all times thankfully accept anything in the way of food, clothing and money that one may wish to give.

Send all contributions to Rev. Geo. H. Waddell, care Epworth Orphanage, Columbia, S. C. N. O. PYLES, Oct. 9, 1897.

The Centennial at the Old Stone Church.

The annual meeting of the "Old Stone Church Association," formed for the purpose of fencing and improving the cemetery grounds at the Old Stone Church, met at that place on Saturday last. The weather was delightful and the attendance very large. Quite a number of persons present were unable to gain admission to the church for want of room.

Dr. J. B. Adger, bowed down with age and infirmity, was present; so, also, were Dr. W. B. Cherry and Mr. W. W. Knight, both of whom were more than eighty years of age. Col. J. Adger Smythe, of Charleston, came over from his summer home, near Pendleton, with Dr. Boggs.

Dr. O. M. Doyle, President of the Association, called the meeting to order. Prayer was made by Rev. B. P. Reid, of Pendleton. The President introduced the orator of the day, Rev. W. E. Boggs, D. D., Chancellor of the University of Georgia, most fittingly recounting his services as Chaplain during the war, especially his devotion to the sick and wounded at Frazier's Farm, one of the great battles fought "around" Richmond in 1862; and also his faithful services during his pastorate at Memphis, Tenn., when the yellow fever prevailed at that place some years ago.

We may be pardoned for adding, that Dr. Boggs has always been regarded as a South Carolinian. He was, however, born abroad during the missionary services of his father, Rev. Geo. W. Boggs. Dr. Boggs has steadily ascended the ladder of fame, and now occupies one of the most important positions in our sister State, where he maintains himself most successfully as a teacher and as the chief executive officer of one of the finest institutions in the South.

The subject discussed by the distinguished speaker was the "Relation of the science of geology, geography, &c., to the Bible. The theme, as treated, was interesting and a revelation to many. The address was lengthy and we could not do it justice in a casual notice like this. A copy was asked for publication and we hope to have the pleasure of reading it at our leisure ere long.

A collection was taken up for the furtherance of the objects of the Association.

The Association took a recess for one hour. This time was pleasantly spent in enjoying the picnic side of the entertainment.

The meeting reassembled in the Church.

The present officers of the Association were re-elected.

A committee of three, including the President of the Association, was appointed to inaugurate a scheme for fencing the cemetery and improving the grounds.

Since the meeting was held Mrs. Warren Davis, a relative of the Reese family, has received a liberal contribution from Judge Reese, of Washington, Ga., for the contemplated improvements at the Old Stone Church.—Keenec Courier, 7th inst.

— There is an interesting war relic at Bloomfield, Ky., in the personality of Basie Hayden, who has not been outside his house for the last thirty-four years, although he is in perfect health. Mr. Hayden was a large slave owner, in 1863, and when his slaves were taken from him he maintained that the Almighty had treated him harshly in allowing his slaves to go free. And, by way of retaliation, he swore that he would "never set a foot on God's earth again." Mr. Hayden is an old Confederate soldier, a successful farmer and considered perfectly sane. He is, however, a man of fifty words. On Friday last he sold fifty mules at an average of $90 a head, and this has brought into prominence the peculiar incident in his life.

— You can't get ahead of the women. An ordinance was passed and enforced in Atlanta recently against the high hat in the theatre. The women submit gracefully to taking off their big hats, but now they have appealed to the city council to stop the nuisance of rushing out for drinks between acts as practiced by the men. They are right, of course, and it may turn to be two reforms instead of one.

— The girl who confides all her little secrets to her chum will be sorry some day when she no longer cares to play in her yard.

— Samuel J. Bampffield, a colored man, and a son-in-law of Robert Smalls, has been appointed postmaster at Beaufort by McKinley.

Black Diamond Railroad Notes.

We clip the following paragraphs from the Dover (Ky.) News of the 7th inst:

President Kirby and General Manager Boone will be in Dover to-day (Thursday).

Three surveying corps are now at work laying out the Black Diamond Railway System through Kentucky, Ohio and Indiana.

All the corporations comprising the main line of the Black Diamond will end with "Tidewater" and all branch lines will end with "South Atlantic."

Gen. Williams at the next meeting of the several Black Diamond Boards of Directors will be named by Col. Boone as General Counsel. The appointment will be confirmed because whatever Col. Boone suggests goes through with a whirl.

The Engineers on the Springfield, Ohio River and South Atlantic Railway (Vincennes, Ind., to the Ohio River at or near Jeffersonville, Ind.) starts to work at Vincennes, Ind., on Monday, Oct. 11. Col. Boone will be present at the driving of the first stake.

The Ohio River will be bridged at Dover and Vevay, Ind., by the Black Diamond System of Railways. Congress will be asked early in December to pass the necessary resolutions permitting their construction. Gen. Williams will take charge of getting the authorization and to do so will take up his residence after December 1st in Washington, D. C.

The main line of the Black Diamond across the State of Kentucky will be chartered as The Ohio River, Cynthiana and Tidewater Railway Company. The corps of engineers organized at Dover, Ky., has been ordered to run the main line between Cynthiana and the Ohio River. It now looks like the Ohio River will be bridged at Vevay, Ind., for the line to Indianapolis and South Western Indiana.

We have seen many corporations handled but we must confess we never saw a man like Col. Boone who picks up the reins and drives through all opposition. Every Director feels safe in espousing any plan Col. Boone suggests. Why? Because Col. Boone is playing to win and knows just what must be done to succeed. Col. Boone never suggests anything unless it is for the welfare of the corporation whose interest he is seeking to advance.

Mr. William Kirby, of Toledo, who is president of all the Black Diamond routes north of the Ohio River, has been for years Railroad Commissioner of Ohio, has been for a long time in close touch with all the railroad people of the country, and is probably the best informed man on railroad matters to-day in America. He has so much confidence in the Black Diamond that he recently refused the appointment of Superintendent of Mails, with a salary of $5,000 which President McKinley had tendered him, preferring to give his whole time and all his attention to the new road project.

Dispensary Shortages.

At the meeting of the State Board of Control last Wednesday, Dispensary Inspector Hill submitted his report for the month of September, as follows:

"I have the honor herewith to submit my report, with itemized statement of expenses for the month of September. I have visited and checked up the following dispensaries: Newberry, Laurens, Abbeville, Anderson, Pendleton, Seneca, Walhalla, Pickens, Greenville (2), Spartanburg (2), Gaffney, Blacksburg, Tirzah, Lancaster, Kershaw, Camden and Chester. I found them all right except L. F. McWhite, Greenville, whose books show a shortage of $65. McWhite promised to pay at an early day. I found Mr. J. J. Bell, of Camden, short $158.27. This shortage was paid immediately to me and has been paid into the dispensary fund, for which I hold the receipt of Captain Webb, clerk of board. I found Mr. J. McDaniel, at Chester, short in his accounts, exclusive of amount now in suit, $118.60. This amount was paid immediately to me and has been paid into the dispensary fund, for which I hold the receipt of Captain Webb, clerk of the board. I will also state to your honorable board that I find the dispensaries generally neatly kept, and the liquors in good condition."

— Converse College, at Spartanburg, has begun its eighth year of work with an enrollment of 402 students, which is the largest opening in its history, and the work in all of the departments is moving on very smoothly.

— Education is a good thing when it does not directly unfit a man for working for a living.
